

Medicine for the Public 2010

LEARN MORE TO LIVE BETTER

A health education program sponsored by the National Institutes of Health Clinical Center and Suburban Hospital, a member of Johns Hopkins Medicine.

TUESDAY MAY 25, 2010

Roadmap to a Healthy Heart: Why Your Genes May Not Be Your Destiny

A look at new treatment options and what researchers are learning about how behavioral and environmental factors may affect our genes and our susceptibility to heart disease.

Keith Horvath, MD

Director, Cardiothoracic Surgery, NIH Heart Center at Suburban Hospital; Director, Cardiothoracic Surgery Research Program, National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute, NIH; and Adjunct Associate Professor, Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine

Dina N. Paltoo, PhD, MPH

Chair, NHLBI Data Access Committee and Program Director, Advanced Technologies and Surgery Branch, Division of Cardiovascular Diseases, National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute, NIH

Registration is required.

Lecture is free and open to the public
Please call 301-896-3939, press option #2

Refreshments: 6:30 pm

Lecture: 7:00 pm to 8:30 pm

Location: Suburban Hospital Auditorium,
8600 Old Georgetown Road, Bethesda, Maryland

For more information, visit the Medicine for Public Website at <http://www.cc.nih.gov/about/news/mfp.shtml>

Reasonable Accommodations: Sign language interpreters will be provided. Individuals with disabilities who need reasonable accommodation to participate in this event should contact the Clinical Center Office of Communications, Patient Recruitment and Public Liaison at 301-496-2563. TTY users, please call through the Federal Relay Service at 1-800-877-8339.

The lecture will be videotaped for future Videocast posting at <http://videocast.nih.gov>
Photographs will be taken during the event

SUBURBAN HOSPITAL
JOHNS HOPKINS MEDICINE